Introduction

DEAR Reader:- When you open this book, you expect something. This book Introduction is not an apology but merely a warning. Namely, don't expect too much. This is our initial annual from a new-born babe in its field. Objectively speaking it is only two or three weeks old and we beg you not to expect it to attain the maturity of a college annual in that time.

This little book has, we think, been properly named "Aitch Aitch Ess Revue '17," for the Alumni Notes it reviews all the graduating classes as far back as the origin of the Hagerstown High School. The remainder of the book reviews the past school year and includes a lengthy history of the present senior class and other classes. Now you know what to expect. Thanks.

During The Editor's Spare Time

The Annual

THIS is the booklet. You know it is the first effort in the way of a High School Year Book. We have told you why we have named it the "Aitch Aitch Ess Revue '17." It is our very best effort too, and considering the fact that we had no foundation on which to build, no previous experience, we feel that we have done well. Although our little book is not as large as we would liked to have made it we must be content. If you are pleased with it, we are glad; if you are not, we are sorry. We would like to please everybody, but since we can not, we must be satisfied with knowing that we have done all that is in our power to make the Annual a success in more ways than one.

The Widespread

THE Widespread is Hagerstown's first periodical and its future is assured. This year it was a pay up undertaking by some irresponsible parties but next year it will be taken in hand by the school authorities and added to the English Department. As was stated in its first issue its advantages are of unique, valuable nature. Its success both morally and financially is assured and, but we will not pledge editorial statistics now. We will merely state that after all subscribers, were, and advertisers' bills collected and printer's bill paid we had twenty-six cents left over to divide among the members of the editorial staff. Our circulation was not large and it could have been made much larger with a little persistent agitation but we came out even and we are glad. Thanks to those who helped.

ROBERT BURNS STEWART

"Woman disturb me not at the last, but let me hold my purpose till I die."

Class President, a gentleman, and leader. A man, not of few words, yet forcible.

LESLIE G. SMITH

"I do not think that I should shrink or falter; but just go on, doing my work, nor change, nor seek to alter."

A star in his classes and never fails either to answer the question or guess at it.

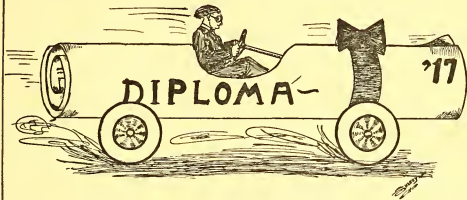

VELMA IRENE ALLEN

"Gentle of men and mind. Her voice was ever soft, gentle, and low. An excellent thing in woman."

A most brilliant star in a notable constellation. She graduates "Cum Laude" being the first of H. H. S. to receive that honor.

~SENIORS~

J. EDWIN PURPLE

MACY O. TEFTOR

TIMOTHY C. SELES

"Some Achieve Greatness"

A man who is young in years but old in hours, for he has lost no time. Ambitious and truly loyal. The one who does things but speaks few words and leaves praise of his deeds to others.

"Sleep's natural brother"

One of those "loyal ones" who is for anything that will add honor to H. H. S. and to Hagers-town. A good student, but not a "grind."

"I have a mother but a whimsy - reason."

Most of the amusing accounts of history have been devoted to in-stature. The "glass of fashion"
She is said to have lost her heart long ago, but she is just as popular as ever, who speaks for her personal charm.

WALTER A. WICHTERMAN

"He is not in the role of common men."

An athlete, scholar, gentleman, and friend. Quiet, thoughtful, and superlatively original. His thoughts embrace all his subjects and he pursues them uninterruptedly and fearlessly.

FLORENCE E. LOGAN

"A rose is sweeter in the bud than in the bloom;

The gentle mind by gentle deed is known."

Our modest, demure member whose greatest attribute is simplicity. She started working in September and has never ceased.

GILBERT FOYST

"Let the world slide, I'll not budge an inch."

This man is "long" at everything. A gentleman and a considerate friend. He is now engaged in unlearning the follies and expiating the mistakes of youth. A scholar second to none.

CHARLES G. RIGG

"No maids need smile at him. My meaning in saying that he is a good man is to have you understand me that he is sufficient."

A man of few words, therefore, one of the best.

KATHERINE DUGGINS

"Oh, when she's angry, she is both mild and shrewd."

Not the quietest yet one of the most winsome. She never believes in letting work interfere with her social duties. Popular with the boys of all ages. Attractive in looks and words. A good student.

ERNEST M. POLLARD

"For so he makes good that I still prefer this course to any other."

He expects you to be with him. "Polly" is not afraid of you. He will sleep by it. An expert with a razor. Famous as a "buddy" man. Believes that variety is the spice of life. A "good sound."

DEXTER PECKINPAUGH

"We who knew her well saw something in her soul others could not see."

She loves a good time and enjoys life thoroughly. Not a candidate for the "Getting by Club." Possibly her greatest popularity is due to her being a sister to "Mark."

GLADYSE A. CROMER

"He is a fool who thinks by force or skill
To turn the current of this woman's will."

Her keen spirit seizes the prompt occasion, and makes the thought start to instant action.

What We Like Best

Dexter—Next to my music, my mirror.

Burns—What all good lawyers like—clients.

Florence—To be let alone.

Leslie—To beat Burns in debate or argument.

Velma—For Gilbert to sit still for two consecutive minutes.

Gilbert—Grapefruit for breakfast; also Middletown.

Thelma—Roses, poetry, and compliments.

Charles—Teachers' examinations.

Gladyse—Alto, our quartette, Irish melodies.

Walter—For our plays to go through.

Kate—Dimples and recess periods.

Macy—To solicit ads for the Annual.

Edwin—Ye editor's waste basket.

Ernest—Next to my little Saxon, Muncie of course.

Back Thru the Ages

OUR good ship, the Class of '17, has at last arrived in Port Commencement after having traversed safely the twelve years' voyage across the sea of Public School. Our crew now consists of fourteen members.

We entered High School in 1913 with eight members, but were reinforced by a like number from the country. Leslie, Charles, Walter and Dexter and our old friends Burns and Ernest were in the bunch too. During the stormy first half of this year we were joined by Gladys Cromer of Milton. The storm immediately ceased when Mr. F. V. Kercheval became Principal at the first of the year, and from then on all was quiet in the Assembly Room. In our Sophomore year we were the same studious pupils that we had been at the close of the previous term; in fact, we could "take over" any of the other classes in anything they wanted to try. We were honored this fall by the entrance of our Editor-in-chief, Edwin Purple. Florence Logan and Thelma Sells also entered our class at this time. At the close of this school year we carried away most of the prizes and had the best class display at the School Exhibit.

Our Junior year was one without any stirring events. Owing to the fact that cupid was working overtime, we were not in as good standing as pupils this term, but at that the Sophomores beat us only one point in the class day exhibit. Mr. Kercheval was Superintendent this term. This year we gave a reception for the Seniors, we being the class to establish that precedent.

We started our Senior year as in a race, when starting down the home stretch we ever and anon expected the finish. Rapid progress could not be obtained this year on account of a great deal of unfinished business.

Farewell Address

School-mates and Friends:

The time of parting is at last at hand. For four long years, through times of sadness and times of gladness, we have traveled together but the time is now at hand to say farewell. Not a farewell for a short vacation but a long one to last throughout our lives. It is, as we have said, a sadness to leave the dear old High School and our friends, but yet a gladness to feel and be able to say as Paul said, "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept my faith."

In these our last meetings we begin to realize the sacrifice of our parents and friends, and the sacrifice of the officers of this, our school. We further realize the trying moments which our teachers have spent with us. For all these helps and benefits we feel that we owe a great debt. Ah, yes! A debt so great that we will never be able to express our thanks to you in words. (Concluded on Next Page) ness, but since we were noted for an establishment of precedents, we put out the first school periodical for the H. H. S. and also this, the first Annual school booklet. We also have the first Cum Laude student to graduate from the school. Of Velma Allen we are very proud.

Back Thru The Ages---Cont'd.

Although our last days were supplemented by a vacation (by request), for half of our class, we take this space to thank the faculty for the many considerations and to say farewell to our fellow school mates. And so, with the best of wishes to all, we now await one of our red letter days, Commencement 1917.

—Macy O. Tector.

Farewell Address---Cont'd

Let us turn from these sad thoughts and words to greater matters. Speaking from past experience and possessing that high education which is possible to be gained from High School we would offer you some friendly advice. We hope you will accept it for what it is worth and be benefited by it. What we would say follows:

Students, always urge unity in class organizations. Organize early because fewer students leave an organized class, it is a help to the officers and faculty of the school, and it creates a greater interest among the students. There should also be unity with the patrons whose ceaseless work, makes the school a possibility.

Develope your talents. You must realize that of all work that produces results, nine-tenths must be drudgery. There is no work from the highest to the lowest, which can be done well by any man who is unwilling to make that sacrifice. We have set a record, students by putting out a school annual and a periodical, and by always agreeing among ourselves. You should profit by our good record and show your talent by setting a higher one.

We have given you our best and most serious advice which we feel is due you. Our hopes and aspirations are for better and higher standards of education. In our review of the past four years we are conscious of many mistakes and like Washington we ask the Almighty to avert or mitigate the evils which attend."

"Thus ends our first lesson and with sad yet joyful hearts we bid you a fond farewell.

—Robert B. Stewart, Pres.

Senior Will

WE, the Senior Class of 1917, of Hagerstown High School, do make and publish this, our last earthly will and testament.

1. To the Juniors we bequeath our sweet dispositions, good looks, fine manners and the secrets to our examples which we set for them. We also leave to them our seats of honor on the west side of the Old High Assembly.

2. To the Sophomores we bequeath a book in which to find information concerning "Spring Poets."

3. To the Freshmen a written document giving them the right to become bright, rosy Sophomores and to "kid" the incoming "freshies."

4. To the dear old Faculty we leave memories of our unsurpassed scholarship.

Dexter: My green stockings to Francis Keever. To Helen Stahr, my position as pianist.

PERSONALS

Ernest: My meanness and my "heart breaking manner" to Dwight Orr with the admonition to use them well in his new field of activities.

Gilbert: To "Shortie" Fowler, his length. His large understanding (feet) to Jessie.

Kate: To Harold Adams her ability to smile. To Marjorie her old heel plates to be worn in the school room for Mr. Eilar's special benefit.

Charles: The chewing gum on the under side of his desk to "Doc" Holaday.

Gladys: Her last year's powder puff, two sticks of Black Jack gum, and her rubber hair pins to her neutral friend, Opal Cox.

Leslie: To Harold Fowler the exclusive right to write notes to Mary Byrd.

Florance: To Francis Keever her overshoes, her powder and powder puff.

Edwin: His editorial ability to Garver and Elsie as Editor and Assistant Editor respectively.

Thelma: To Hazel Adams, her new and original receipt for smiling.

Walter: His "Huythuladies" smile to Bob Gray. To "Little Doc" his great ability as a forward.

Velma: To Grace Johnsonbaugh (she having earnestly begged for it), her intellectual and studious ability.

Macy: His neutral attitude toward the (School) girls (?) to William Small.

We hereby as a whole, seal and sign this before our witnesses the twenty-fifth day of April, nineteen hundred and seventeen.

—Gladys Cromer.

Class Poem

Our High School days will soon be o'er
With all their toil and fun,
Altho we're Seniors we discover
That knowledge has just begun.

As our first lesson here will end,
For higher goals we'll throw.
For all of our ambitions tend
Still higher things to know.

And dear school mates, we say to you
Keep digging with all your might.
Sustain old High what e'er you do
And keep her honor bright.

For we all love you, Hagerstown High,
We love your members too
So now that parting time is nigh,
We say good-bye to you.
—Dexter Peckinpough.

Into the Future

IT was 4:10 P. M. today, where I had been doing missionary work for nearly six years. As I entered my cottage a feeling of home sickness came over me. I began to wonder what had become of all my friends at home and especially my classmates. The mail had just arrived, bringing with it a copy of the Hagerstown Exponent, which I immediately began to read. It was dated April 3, 1925. Glancing over the front page I noticed the headlines:

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Pleasant Visit Comes to Sudden End

April 3. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pollard and twins, Vivian and Ernest, had been visiting friends and relatives here and were returning to their home in Muncie when their Saxon touring car turned turtle throwing them several feet. The occupants were not seriously injured, and little damage was done to the car. Mr. Pollard is proprietor of a Chop Suey Restaurant in Muncie.

The next thing that I noticed was

DRIVER BADLY HURT

April 3. —Walter Wichterman, driver for the Riggs Patent Medicine Company, was seriously hurt when he fell from his wagon yesterday. Mr. Wichterman's attention was attracted by several girls, and a lunge of his horse caused him to lose his balance and fall. His condition is reported better today. He has been connected with the Riggs firm for some time.

I then turned to the personal column. I read several items, but recognized very few names until I came to:

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Showalter, of Modoc, are visiting friends and relatives here. Mrs. Showalter was formerly Miss Kate Duggins. Her husband is connected with a brokerage firm at Modoc.

Turning to the Court News I was surprised to find the names of several of my former class mates.

NOTED CROOKS CAUGHT IN RAID

April 3,—Edwin Purple, Macy Teetor and Gilbert Foyst, three noted crooks, were caught in a raid last night by the local police. They were engaged in an exciting game of matching pennies, and were so taken by surprise that they submitted meekly. Three kegs of pop and several boxes of chewing gum were confiscated by the police.

None of the prisoners were able to furnish bale. They are now held at the local police station pending the action of Judge R. B. Stewart. Although the law says two to fourteen years it is thought that they will be given lenient sentences as they were classmates of the Judge.

The only other court happening which concerned my acquaintances was—

Leslie Smith has been sued for divorce by his wife, who was formerly Miss Florence Logan. The complaint filed by the plaintiff was brutality and failure to provide. The case has been arraigned to appear before Judge Stewart the first of May.

The last article that I read was—

NOTED MUSICIANS TO APPEAR BEFORE AUDIENCE AT THE GRAND THEATRE ECONOMY

Miss Dexter Peckenpaugh, the celebrated pianist, Miss Velma Allen, the talented violinist and Miss Gladys Cromer, the famous vocalist, will appear Wednesday, of next week, at the Grand, Economy. The girls are former residents of this city, and graduated from the old Washington Street High School.

The young ladies have spent several years at the Millville Conservatory of Music, also studying abroad.

Prof. W. F. Collins is forming a theatre party to witness the recital. The party will include Professor and Mrs. Collins, Miss Nellie Van Antwerp and Professor and Mrs. Eilar, former teachers of the musicians.

Junior Class History

SEPTEMBER, 1914, the present day Juniors entered their career in dear old Hagerstown High School. There were twenty-one of us Freshies and we certainly entertained the other classes highly for one whole year.

When we were Sophomores the rest hardly thought us worthy of their notice for we were too large to be cute and too small to be noticeable. Nevertheless we took the two class prizes at the close of school.

We are now Juniors and are beginning to make people sit up and take notice. In the mean time five of our former class quit school, of which two are married, and one boy has joined us making seventeen in all to start in the Senior Class.

And now the Seniors take their leave,

And we are left to take their parts;
Time does us from their presence cleave;

We wish them well with all our hearts.

—Elsie Hall.

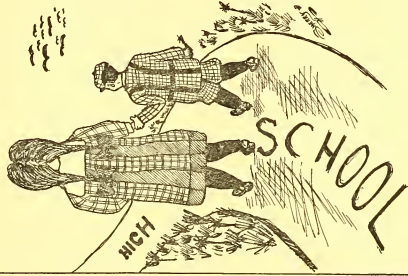

Obituary

THE Senior Class of the Hagerstown High School passed to its final reward April 26, 1917, age four years. The class numbered fourteen souls in all, and notwithstanding its extreme youth, managed to become well known, we might say noted, in its ceaseless, tireless efforts to outdo any former class ever graduated from the Hagerstown High School. These seekers of knowledge have made good, and their works will live after them.

For four strenuous (often exasperating) years, their voices have resounded in the vast assembly room in song, in recitation, in debate, in oratory, and in reiteration of their successful achievements in the field of classics.

And again in retrospect, how we marvelled at the growing arrogance of the Seniors, their imposing manner, their great learning. But now they are vanished but not forgotten.

SOPHOMORES

Sophomore Class History

IN the year 1915 we who are now Sophomores started here as Freshmen. There were nineteen enrolled and but in any other class, there were big and little, bright and dumb. Before the term closed we had for the class deciding they did not wish a High School education. The rest of us, however, came through with all sails set and not a-flying.

Only eleven of those who were Freshmen here last year entered as Sophomores this year. The others had either left the class or had moved out of the vicinity. Three pupils from other schools joined us and now the total enrollment is fourteen.

We stand together just a loyal band,

A little unit in a growing mass,

We strive to gain where others lose,

We do our best all others to surpass.

Mary Byrd.

Manual Training

MANUAL TRAINING was established in Hagerstown High School one and one-half years ago. Since its establishment fifty students have enrolled. The first essential aimed at in all cases has been a proper appreciation for tools and their care.

The members of the class of 1916-17 are: Freshmen; Horace Eilar, Byron Forkner, Vellet Benbow, Jesse Ulrich, Reginald Brunner; Harold Adams. Sophomores; Emmett Cordell, Victor Northcotte, Harold Fowler, Porter Showalter. Juniors; Harry Shaffer, Floyd Hunt, Dwight Orr, Doyle Holiday, Wilbur Petty. Seniors; Ernest Pollard.

There were 170 projects made in the shop. The highest grades awarded were 98 per cent to Dwight Orr and Ernest Pollard, the average grade being about 91 per cent, which is an excellent average for the whole class.

—Porter Showalter.

Domestic Science

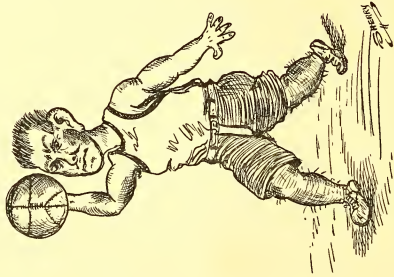

THE first semester was devoted to sewing and the second to cooking.

The first article made in sewing was a cooking apron, and after our mid-term examinations were over we donned our aprons and took our first lesson in cooking. The School Board effeciently equipped six tables for us, and as our dishes were delayed we often had to use our imaginations in preparing a meal.

During the term we entertained the School Board and teachers and the Home Economics Club. Our visitors were few although many say they are deeply interested in the work. We did not learn to prepare elaborate dishes, but strove to tastefully prepare economical dishes and to prepare food in a way to be easily digested, and properly balanced meals. As a whole our work was very successful.

—Helen Stahr.

ATHLETICS~

Basketball

AS basket ball is the major sport at the Hagerstown High School more attention is paid to it and better teams are turned out than in any other branch of athletics.

The team started the season with but two of last year's regulars. There were several second string men, however, and under the careful tutilage of Coach Stahr, we were represented by the strongest team ever turned out by the local school.

The records do not show the real strength of the team, as much stronger teams were played than in former years and much sickness affected the playing ability of the team. Although Captain Wichterman, Foyst, Tector and Purple are lost by graduation, there are several members of the second team that are "comers," and a good team should represent the school next season.

Following is the season's record, and where the games where played,

Coach Bill

(Willard Stahr)

Optimistic, efficient, inspiring, our initial coach, that was "Bill." With a high school and college record as a player of more than ordinary attainment, he was eminently fitted to tell and show how to put through the latest plays and passes. Had not illness intervened as a determining factor, his team would have produced a record unknown in this school and rivalling the deeds of the gym trained city athletes. Quick to see where weakness existed, he was equally quick to name and apply the remedy. On all trips at home, his instructions between "halves" bore striking fruit in the last period.

7917027

He could show by example how to make a field or foul goal, or a signalled play, a thing many coaches are unable to do. His untiring training, his optimism in defeat, his impartial criticisms, have established a precedent in coaching which his successor would wisely imitate.

Margorie: "Oh yes, I was prepared for the worst."

Ouch.

Gabe: "What is generally known as a knocker?"

Wichy: "Generally a very young doctor who tries to coach a Bachelor of Medicine and doesn't even know the meaning of the word."
